EVERY MORNING FOR THE Good THAT'S IN THEM

EVERYONE knows that prunes are good to eat and "good for you." But everyone does not realize how good prunes can taste if they're properly prepared.

Sunsweet Prunes are a natural food, to begin with. They are especially rich in fruit-sugar because they are especially fine prunes—the finest prunes, in fact, California can produce. And this fruit-sugar is quickly converted into energy. Your physician will tell you so. He will tell you that prunes are rich in tonic iron. He will also tell you that they contain certain concentrated food and laxative elements essential to a properly balanced diet.

In fact, prunes are so essential to your daily fare—so vital to good health and right living—that nothing can take their place as a necessary, economical fruit-food. That's why we say: eat Sunsweet Prunes every morning—for the good that's in them! For there's nothing more delicious, nothing more healthful, nothing more suited to the mood of the breakfast moment than a dish of stewed or baked Sunsweet Prunes, properly prepared.

Remember, Sunsweet is a mark of quality, not size. Large or small, the flavor of these top-quality prunes is the same.

CALIFORNIA'S NATURE-FLAVORED PRUNES

The health-importance of prunes in your daily diet

Physicians like to talk about the "human economy." What they mean is the marvelous system of efficiency by which the body maintains and requires itself with the least drain on its vital resources.

It's a big job—this business of intake and output, of credit and debit, of "spending" just the right amount of energy for each particular function of the body. It's a bigger job, still, when you realize how the body manages to keep its health-accounts straight in spite of what we do to it.

You are what you eat. "As a man eateth, so is he." Thus runs a time-honored proverb. The connection between bad dreams and heavy suppers is not merely comic supplement nonsense. Tell your physician what you eat and he will tell you what you think. For nothing can be "all right with the world" until all's right with your digestion.

We agree with Cervantes when he makes his Don Quixote say: "The health of the whole body is tempered in the laboratory of the stomach." Yet we gallow madly through our meals with nary a thought as to what results from the hectic food combinations that travel down our alimentary canal. We rely upon Mother Nature to separate the good from the bad; and then, we trust to our "human economy" to keep us going on the strength of it.

Since the dawn of Time there have been certain foods that, we felt, were good for us. Perhaps we didn't know just why. All we sensed was the fact that these foods satisfied, in a tasteful way, some natural craving of our bodies.

The balance wheel of the diet
Foremost among these natural foods is fruit. For fruit is the dietetic balance wheel of the body—it helps to keep your system on an even keel.

Have you ever seen an ocean liner breasting a storm-tossed sea? How it dipped and lurched and swerved from side to side—and yet kept on its even keel all the while! Do you know what did it? An instrument called the gyroscope. Every ship has one. The human ship has one, too. And fruit, if you please, is the "instrument" that balances your daily diet.

For instance: a diet consisting only of cereals, meat and eggs would certainly disturb and disorganize the "human economy." Whether it is instinct or knowledge that has led man to use a generous proportion of fruit in his diet, the result is a happy and healthful one.

Let us take prunes as a tasteful example. Prunes are rich in nutritive, laxative and mineral elements. They are rich in carbohydrates, containing nearly 65 per cent fruit sugar. And this sugar is a natural source of energy. It is easily digested, readily assimilated and turned into energy for the body.

The health value and beneficial effects of prunes have long been recognized; not only are they appealing and nutritious in themselves but they introduce certain salts and organic acids which improve the quality of the blood and react favorably on the secretions.

Body-building and regulating
Say an acknowledged authority on nutrition: "In using dried fruit (such as prunes) we obtain not only the nutritive value of the sugar, but whatever other hygienic or medicinal value they may have by virtue of the salts and organic acids found in them. Remember, too, that prunes are high in iron."

Just why prunes satisfy a craving of the system that no other fruit does is further illustrated in the following comment by this same authority:

"The craving for sweets, exhibited in most children and many adults, is a natural demand on the part of the system for a needed food. This truth is brought home to us more clearly when we remember that Nature's food for the infant, mother's milk, contains of its solids, 56 per cent sugar. Nature continues to provide sugar for the older children in the form of sweet fruits."

Thus, it would seem that Nature has been generous indeed with prunes. For she has made them a fruit-food rich in body-building and body-regulating elements—a health-food that all of us need for the good of our days and our living ways.

A Home Made Gray Hair Remedy

Gray, streaked or faded hair can be immediately made black, brown, or light brown, whichever shade you desire, by the use of the following remedy that you can make at home.

Merely get a box of Olex powder at any drug store. It costs very little and no extra to buy. Dissolve it in 15 cc. of distilled or rain water and comb it through the hair. Put directions for use and a $100.00 gold bond issue in each box guaranteeing the use that Olex powder does not contain silver, lead, zinc, sulphur, mercury, antimony, or other products of other derivatives.

It is safe, does not rub off, is not sticky or gummy and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. It is a family remedy and is quickly made. Save money.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in less than five minutes. It is cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, non-chill, kills the cough and is pure and good.

Four 1/2 ounces of Elixer in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain regulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. If desired, this you make a full pint a family coughing at more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly kills the inflamed membrane that lines the throat and air passages, stops the irritating tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. It is useful for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and general asthma.

Place in a highly concentrated compound of Norway, pine extract, known for healing inflammations. To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "Elixer of Pine" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Finck Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SHARON THREATS START FEDERAL INQUIRY

U. S. Inspectors Hunt Mailers of Defamatory Letters Sent Residents

United States postoffice inspectors and the police of Greater Boston were searching today for the persons to persons who mailed more than 150 threatening and scurrilous letters to prominent Sharron citizens.

The letters, although dated February 21, were mailed from the South Station at noon yesterday, the first of them reaching Sharron last night. Others are still being received.

Indignation is rife in Sharron over the letters, which are signed, some in the name of the typewriter, with the name of a highly respected citizen, who disclaims any knowledge of them. The letters purport to be from a newly-formed "Sharron Vigilance Society," the secretary of which remains anonymous. The avowed purpose of the organization is to "rid the town of undesirable."

Some of the letters were typewritten on bond letter paper, others on blue lined paper. Some of them appear to have been mailed with a stamp. The citizen's name appended to them all was mailed incorrectly.

The letters contained charges against the townsmen, an ex-representative, clergyman and six town of Sharron. One official was called a "windbag" and his wife was defamed. The charges were not confirmed to the man of the town, several women being mentioned.

The letters announced that another "bulletin" would be sent out March 12.

Retiring Officials to Take 'Private Stock'

Washington, March 2.—The efforts of Secretary Baker to have authority granted permitting them to ship their "private stocks" with them on their journey to "private life" have been successful.

The act has been given that all retiring Democratic officials are to be granted the right to do so without being arrested for illegally transporting liquor, stipulated by the Volstead Act. Assurance to this effect have been given to Secretary Baker and Postmaster General Burleson, who wanted to be sure they would not violate federal or state laws in moving their booze.

Catarthral Deafness and Head Noises

TELLS HAVE SIMPLE WAY TO CURE CATARTHRAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have catarthral deafness or head noises caused by catarrh of the middle ear, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that there is a simple remedy which can be easily overcome in many instances by the following treatment, which can be easily prepared in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist a box of Bismuth (Double Strength), 1/2 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar, stir until dissolved. Take one teaspoonful four times a day. An improvement in your condition should be noticed after the first day's treatment. Everything should become easy, while the catarrh disappears under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of blood, headache, dizziness, hearing and vision dropping in the back of the head are often symptoms which will assist the prompt cure of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this treatment. It is said that nearly every case of catarrh of the middle ear, if treated early and there must, therefore, be many people who are hearing may recover by this simple, harmless, home treatment.

"Your Pretty Teeth"

What have you done to them?"

There is a new way of teeth cleaning—a way which fights film. To millions of people it has brought whiter, prettier teeth. Also safer teeth and cleaner.

You see the results in every circle—see them in glistening teeth.

This is to urge that you try this method. Ask for a ten-day test. Then mark the change which you see and your friends see.

It combats the film

Most teeth are clouded more or less by film. The film is viscous. You can feel it with your tongue. But it clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. And it often forms the basis of fixed coats.

The ordinary tooth paste does not end film. The tooth brush has left much of it intact. The film absorbs saliva, making the teeth look dingy. Thus millions of teeth have lost their natural luster.

How film ruins teeth

Film does more than mar the beauty. It is now regarded as the cause of most tooth troubles.

Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substances which ferment and form acid. It holds acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germ breeds in it. They, with tartar, are the chief causes of pyorrhea. Also of other serious troubles, local and internal.

These troubles have been constantly increasing. So dental science has long been seeking ways to fight that film.

A daily combatant

Two effective methods have now been found to daily combat that film. Able authorities have amply proved them. Millions now employ them. And leading dentists everywhere are helping to spread their use.

The methods are combined in Pepsodent, a new-day dentifrice. The results are quickly seen and felt, so they cannot be disputed. That is the tooth paste we urge you to try. And we send a test free.

Also aids Nature

Nature places in the mouth great teeth-protecting agents. But with modern diet, rich in starch, those forces need constant stimulation. Pepsodent supplies that stimulation. This is in keeping with the views of dental authorities.

It multiplies the salivary flow. It multiplies the search digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise cling and form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's agent for neutralizing acids which cause tooth decay.

Each use of Pepsodent increases these forces, and the excess remains for some time. These effects alone, in dental opinion, mean a new era in tooth protection.

No soap—no chalk

Soap and chalk are omitted from Pepsodent, to accord with modern dental requirements. No tooth paste which contains them can bring Pepsodent effects.

Pepsodent is the scientific tooth paste—the new-day method of teeth cleaning. Authorities say that it should supplant the methods which are wrong.

The reasons are told in a book we send. The 10-day Tube best reveals the effects. You will know what is best in a week.

News of Motion Picture World

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

FOR "What's Worth While," which heads the bill at the Park Theatre this week, Lois Weber, who wrote the story and directed it, has taken a good theme, the love of an aristocratic girl for a rancher, "a diamond in the rough," and with this she has cleverly brought out the differences between them.

She has not, though, made a strong point of the story, as we might expect, for it is really "worth while." Whether it is because the awakening was too slow in coming or because the entire action of the story was a trifle too slow for five reels, it's hard to judge. As a four-reel feature, for instance, it would have been a howling success.

Phoebe, the daughter of a self-made man, is an aristocrat to her finger tips. Her father is anxious that she should marry well and brings up a group of eligible young men of good social standing and good bank accounts. But she refuses to accept any of them. She has already lost her heart to the photograph of a young rancher, Elton, her father's right-hand man at his oil fields in the West.

Finally she confesses this love to her father and vows she won't get over it until she actually sees him set with his knife. That summer they go out with a company, ostensibly for Phoebe's health, but in reality to see Elton set.

Unfortunately, the "cure" does not work. She only falls more hopelessly in love with him. Then, though, realizing the girl between them and makes her go back West. But it's too much for him. He goes abroad, studies and meets people and becomes her equal in every way.

Then he goes back, they are married—but do not live happily ever after. He has lost the man whom he had loved in him; instead of being her superior, he has become her equal. How they go back to the ranch and find they have each been playing a game, makes a splendid wind-up. The picture has been well put on and well cast. Clair Windsor as Phoebe is not only very attractive, but merely looks surprised when asked for information.

acting is along passive lines rather than emotional or dramatic ones, but she makes it effective. Louis Calhern, a stage favorite, makes his first film appearance in this picture as Elton. He is very good as the blasé man-of-the-world, playing with a lightness and carefree manner that suits the role perfectly.

Miss Weber is the only woman director in the film industry today. She has a keen sense of beauty and of artistic settings, and has brought out the artistry of the story. If she left out some of the strength.

KEATON COMING IN MARCH. THE SUCCESS OF "Buster"

Keaton's new picture, "The Haunted House," at the Park, Modern and Beacon Theatres this week makes doubly interesting the news that he is coming East the latter part of March, regardless of everything. Reason: He is to marry Natalie Talmadge as soon as he reaches New York.

Another interesting item of the announcement is the fact that Natalie Talmadge played with Keaton in one of his first comedies, "Good Night, Nurse," filmed nearly four years ago. It is more than likely that they will appear together in time in the future.

In "The Haunted House" Keaton does some of his best comedy work. Especially good is the scene in which the absurd crowd so thick and fast that he pulls out a whistle and acts as a "traffic cop" for them.

"BROADWAY BREVITIES" GIRL SIGNS.

THE MOVIES have again looked over the musical comedy field for players. This time they find on Lillian Dawson of the "Broadway Brevities," who yesterday signed a contract to play the leading role in "Dangerous Toys," to be produced by Edmund Goulding, Lillian Dawson, who directed William Fox's picture, "The Sin That Was His," and George Arlino in "The Devil."

At the end of the Boston engagement of "Broadway Brevities" Miss Dawson will go to the theatre to start her new career.

"I'm looking forward to it," she said yesterday, "because I can't think of any better training for acting than the movies gives one. In pictures you cannot wholly on expression and carriage to carry you to success. It's just that still training that I want to bring back to the stage. Oh, yes, I'm not going to leave the stage for good. I love it too much. But, really, it's not policy to sniff a movie check or a movie contract."

Bear Raiders Sent Prices Off at the Outset; Ralls Under Early Pressure

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were weak in New York at noon, but there was enough showing to give the list a slightly irregular appearance. The movement was upward in the second hour and most all issues were up about the closing. Demand for the day was of less volume than yesterday, first hour trading approximately 125,000 shares. WEAK AT THE OPENING.

Motors showed considerable resistance to the market, which was largely due to a resumption of short selling by the players at Florida Water. Securities, sugar, copper and rubber did not move far in either direction. The selling was not so general as yesterday, adverse action by the Interstate Commerce Commission on the proposed issue of $10,000,000 securities, the foreign situation, increased tension at the general business situation.

Man and Wife Rebuild Strength Thru Gland Pills

Mrs. Morin says New Gland Treatment "Worked Wonders" for Her and Did "Husband 'World of Good'"

After years of suffering from nervous irritability, sleeplessness and general run-down conditions Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Morin, 1019 Maplewood Avenue, Bridgeport, although past middle age, say they never felt better in their lives, thanks to animal gland extracts.

When interviewed, Mrs. Morin made the following remarkable statement:

"I had suffered from sleeplessness, nervousness and general run-down for several years. At night I would lie awake in bed for hours at a time trying to get to sleep. At times I thought I would go simply crazy for the want of sleep. No matter what I took it didn't seem to help me a bit, and I became irritable and nervous. I was getting so bad in years, so when I read of the wonder of the New Gland Compound (a new tonic containing extracts from the glands of healthy animals) was accomplishing, I decided to try it."

"I will never forget my surprise at the results. Why I helped me immediately, and now I sleep fine every night and get up feeling rested and refreshed in the morning. It certainly worked wonders for me."

Husband Puts On Weight Quickly
"My husband looked the way I had improved," continued Mrs. Morin. "He had been run down for some time due to over-work. He had lost weight and would come home looking tired and naturally would become irritated over the smallest trifles."

"But now, although he has been taking Gland Compound for only a few weeks he has shown almost unimproved improvement. He gained weight so rapidly that today his clothes are actually too tight for him. His irritability has all disappeared and he doesn't mind hard work a bit any more."

Gland Compound does as both a world of good and we are glad of this opportunity to recommend it to

Astonishing Results Everywhere
From everywhere come similar reports of the almost incredible results that are brought about through the use of Gland Compound, especially in the treatment of premature old age, nervous disorders, poor blood, thinness, loss of strength and energy, and general run-down condition.

The reason is that Gland Compound attacks these ailments in an entirely new way. Instead of treating only their symptoms Gland Compound gets right at their cause, which scientists have in many cases found to be run-down glands.

Our glands, we are told, secrete a vital substance known as hormones, which are the building blocks of our bodies, and which, as they gradually die through over-work or disease, cause our bodies to become run-down and weak. Therefore, to keep up our glands and to get new glands to take the place of the old ones, is the only way to get back to normal. This is the principle on which Gland Compound is based.

RECORD BOSTON AUTO SHOW TO COST $100,000

Carpenters Ready to Transform Mechanics Hall into Dazzling Motor Interior

Very shortly a small army of carpenters, scenic painters and decorators will tackle the job of transforming the ugly walls of Mechanics Building into a dazzling background for the big Boston Automobile show which opens on March 12 and continues seven days later. More elaborate and more gorgeous than any of the previous advances of decorative art, the promise of the show management for the 1921 exhibition.

It will cost close on to $100,000 to transform the Mechanics Building upon the automobile show. From far off Japan and many European countries just come material to be used in the decorations. In the National Automobile Circuit the Boston show stands out as the most beautiful of all exhibitions.

The lure of the automobile show is greater than the public believes. From every corner of New England comes a hundred thousand more visitors to feast their eyes on the brilliant decorations that are set up as a background for the hundreds of cars, trucks and accessories. Not all are new, but the general effect is the magnet for the thousands of visitors who flock to the show.

The Boston show means more for the department store, the retail merchant, the restaurant, the hotel and the theatre. It is their busiest week of the year. Several million dollars are expended by these visitors who come from the four corners of the state for the show.

It Is Time for All Foreign Propagandists to Go Home

Editor of the Boston American:

Sir Philip Gibbs should pack up his trunks and go home.

He is not doing any good over here, either to himself, to our country or to England by stirring up factional feeling over the Irish question through his anti-Irish, pro-English propaganda.

This country has long been flooded with pro-British propaganda through the press associations and the newspapers. Pro-British propaganda of this character, however, though objectionable, does not incite to riot. But Sir Philip Gibbs' method of misrepresenting and abusing the Irish—or rather the English government's method through Sir Philip Gibbs—is distinctly detrimental and should be stopped, if not by the British government's retiring Sir Philip Gibbs, at least by the failure of our people to attend his disturbing lectures.

Sir Edward Carson declared that the Irish question was none of our "damned business" in America, and denounced "American meddling" in Irish affairs as "damned impudence."

If it is the opinion of the British government that the Irish question is none of our damned business, they should keep their propagandists at home and not send their people over here offensively to meddle in matters which they declare are none of our damned business, and not attempt to thrust down our throats British views of the desirability of outrage and massacre, destruction and brutal oppression in helpless Ireland.

The foreign nations, particularly the British, that flood this country with propaganda under the impression that the American people are poor, gullible fools that can be made to believe anything if it is repeated often enough, are wasting their money and in reality injuring their own cause.

Our people are tired of propaganda of this kind; they resent the efforts of these foreign countries to misinform and mislead them.

They are becoming actually incensed at those nations which seek to meddle in our affairs and to compel us to participate in their aggressions, with which we have no sympathy.

Our people want the non-interference policies of George Washington restored.

We want America to be alone, and we want America to be alone.

We do not want these European militaristic nations to embroil us in their quarrels or to attempt to control our action at home or abroad.

We want them to pay their debts and clear up their accounts, and hereafter attend to their own affairs.

We would like them to do their duty to humanity and to perform towards the peoples of the world the promises and pledges that they made when they were anxious to get us into their war.

We would like them to do this, but we no longer hope that they will do it.

In spite of their propaganda we have come to know these European nations for what they are—breakers of pledges, dodgers of debt, shirkers of obligations, betrayers of trust, ready to plunder every other people, and ready to sacrifice their own people for imperialistic power and spoils.

We have no interests in common with governments of this kind.

We must cut free from them or we will be dragged down with them in the general wreck that such cruel and conscienceless policies are sure to cause.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

Rumania Shakes Off Yoke of Militarists

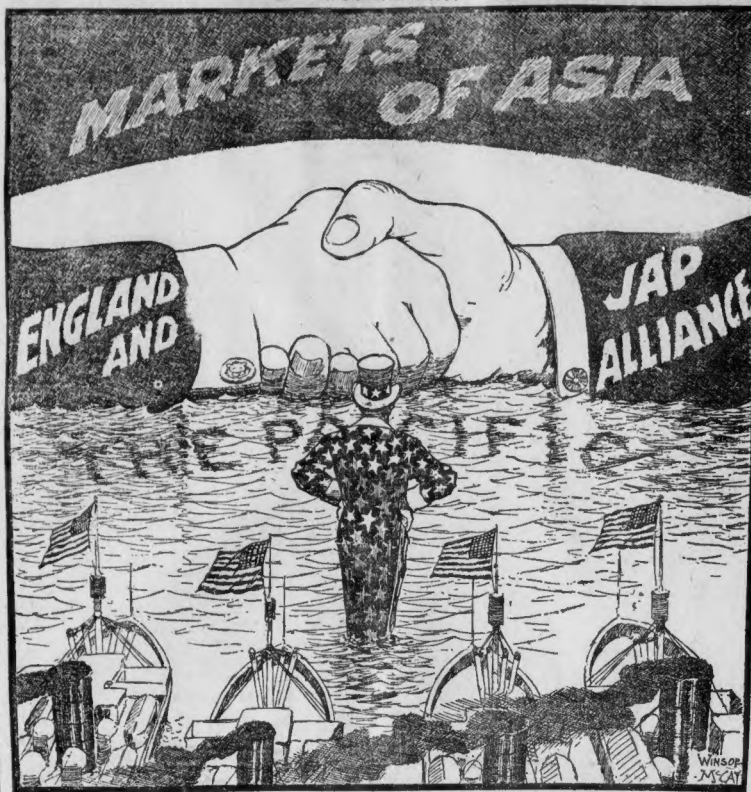

The selection of Reval as the city in which the Rumanian and Russian Soviet negotiators are to meet is a wholesome and significant symptom that the Rumanian government has come to its senses and has thrown off the evil influences of the British and French imperialists and militarists.

For months, French and British agents, under the high-sounding title of "Military Missions," have been in Eastern Europe, endeavoring to bribe, coerce or persuade the Polish, Bohemian, Hungarian and Rumanian governments to make war upon the Russian and German republics. It looked for a time that the Rumanian government would yield to the pressure of the French militarists, but with the selection of the Estonian capital as the seat of negotiations, and the dispatch of a well-disposed diplomatic legation from both Moscow and Bucharest, the French plot against Europe's peace seems to have failed so far as the Rumanian kingdom is concerned.

And failure of the French militarists in Rumania naturally means their failure in the weaker countries neighboring Rumania.

The Unheeded Call

By E. KIBER

DON'T you hear the farmers calling—you who labor in the shops? There is need of men out yonder to be raising precious crops!

"Come," they call—"come to the country, where the sweetest breezes blow, Where the winding brooks are making cheerful music as they flow!"

Can't you hear them—you who worry when your bossed call you down?

Why remain to struggle sadly for existence here in town?

THEY are calling in the country—calling "Help us in our need!"

But the clerk whose soles are leaky turns his cuffs, and will not heed;

They are calling—calling loudly, where the gentle doodoo sings;

There is rust upon the plowshare, and it's time for planting things;

But the nights are long out yonder, and there's little dancing done;

Once the farmer raised six daughters—now he's lucky to have one.

THEY are calling for assistance, but their calling is in vain;

Let them struggle and be silent; it is useless to complain.

They have made the hard conditions that exist out there today.

Where the brooks wind through the meadows and the orchards bloom in May;

Says the clerk whose soles are leaky: "Me for good old storage eggs."

Where there's always inspiration and a chance to look at legs.

THEY are calling for assistance, but their calling is in vain;

Let them struggle and be silent; it is useless to complain.

They have made the hard conditions that exist out there today.

Where the brooks wind through the meadows and the orchards bloom in May;

Says the clerk whose soles are leaky: "Me for good old storage eggs."

Where there's always inspiration and a chance to look at legs.

Letters to the Editor

Attacks of Henry Ford

Editor Boston American:

I wish to thank the Boston American for the great part it has taken in defending the Jew against the attacks made by Ford. In this country the so-called rights of man are widely recognized, and the equal right of all citizens to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness is entered into positive law.

Mr. Ford cries, "Peace! Peace!"

How can there be peace if he attacks a race whose ideal is peace. I have been a constant reader of the Boston American editorial page, and I think it the only one that has in reality taken the side of the people. One can quench his thirst for knowledge both mentally and morally in this paper. May the Boston American continue to give forth its blessings to the people.

ISRAEL HOFFMAN, Roxbury.

"Made in Germany"

Editor Boston American:

Among many little incidents that have occurred to me in my three months' sojourn in the Hub of Knowledge, one happened three weeks ago Sunday. My wife and I were in Charleston to view Bunker Hill Monument and while there went into the house at the entrance. In the reception room, as you know, there is a stand with souvenirs for sale, and of course, my wife had to have some. On our arrival home, in looking over her purchases I discovered a small pewter cup or vase having the monument and other historical subjects stamped on it. But on turning it over what was my surprise to read, "Made in Germany," stamped in good plain letters on the bottom.

To explain further, my wife was an English girl. She asked if this country was not smart enough to make or to buy the souvenirs sold in a shrine of liberty from some country we were not at war with. I was surely stumped for an answer. FRANK HANCOCK, South Boston.

Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

Resident U. S. Patent Office

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 2.

SOMEWHERE. WHEN SHE went to school. SHE HAD seen a picture. OF THE Senate Chamber. AND ALL the Senators. EXCEPTING ONE. WERE in their seats. AND THE one. WAS STANDING. WITH HIS arms raised. AND MAKING a speech. AND the sitting. Senators. WERE MUCH interested. AND LISTENING closely. AND THE Vice-President. WAS SITTING up straight. WITH HIS eyes focused. ON the speaking. Senator. AND THE other day. SHE WENT with me. TO THE Senate gallery. FOR the first time. IN HER busy life. AND TWELVE Senators. WERE in their seats. AND MR. Marshall. TO BE a Senator.

WAS READING a speech. ABOUT FOREST reserves. AND FOREST fires. AND HE was eloquent. AND RAISED his voice. AND SWUNG his arms. AND OF the Senators. WHO WERE in their seats. THERE WASN'T one. WHO WAS listening to him. AND WE sat there. FOR HALF an hour. AND THEN left. AND I'm very sorry. I TOOK her there. BECAUSE NOW she thinks. THAT U. S. Senators. AREN'T EVEN gentlemen. OR THEY would have listened. TO THE poor man. WHO HAD to make the speech. ABOUT FOREST fires. AND SHE further said. IT MUST be discouraging. TO BE a Senator.

Then two catalogues had to be made. latitudes of all the planets and stars, together with their longitudes, which are also measured ever to the east, from the highly important point of the first of Arles. The other catalogue was of right ascensions and declinations. These books ever increased in size.

When the micrometer had been brought to a precision as great as possible, before the appearance of millions of an inch, men like Brahe, and also in the United States Bureau of Standards, related their catalogues, a work of huge proportions. And all over again with every great advance in the making of finer and finer micrometers, and greater than that, clocks that will run a month with a limit of error of less than one second. These are in vacuum chambers, so that friction of pendulums against air is avoided.

But all of these catalogues (for as I write) had to take a secondary place when that moved of the nineteenth century began in a small way, namely celestial photography, now a majestic science of immense importance. The value of this science is that photographs of hundreds of millions of stars can be taken. Each sun makes a minute image on the sensitive plates; and many of these are as fine as minute as points of fine needles. But they are fixed on the plates. They can be measured by means of the new highly accurate measuring machines in a constant-temperature room.

Thus a binary sun can be photographed, say, tonight, and again a year from now. One plate is superimposed upon the other. But the two suns have moved across their common centre of gravitation. This motion in one year is measured with an accuracy that seems impossible but real. Then the distance of the pair from the earth can be measured, the suns can be weighed.

"So you," reasoning was all wrong," I said. "Well, not exactly," he replied. "You see, the loud clock went out and borrowed ten dollars and came back and cleaned up the game before daylight. He got, every dime he had."

I left about midnight, but the next day I ran into my neighbor. "Well, how did it all turn out?" he asked. "He seemed a bit sheepish as he answered."

"I had to quit following that loud bird right after you left," he said. "He was losing too consistently. He finally got broke, but before that I had been trailing with the looking fellow, and the chap in the cap, and I was a good winner at one time."

"So you," reasoning was all wrong," I said. "Well, not exactly," he replied. "You see, the loud clock went out and borrowed ten dollars and came back and cleaned up the game before daylight. He got, every dime he had."

Often you wonder why you do not make a more favorable impression on the whom you meet, perhaps for the first time. Isn't it because you make such an obvious effort to win favor? If you would be yourself—natural—you would make more and stronger friendships and get more enjoyment out of the folk you meet.

It is difficult to be always playing a part. When you are self-conscious it robs you of what little individuality you have, and it is individuality which is sought in friendship. You cannot play a role and be successful all the time, and the impression you make upon others establishes a very uncertain foundation which will not work out to your advantage in the long run.

You must possess the good qualities in reality, not just away from the presence attitude and be a real somebody and you will find the ones who care for you as you are. None else counts.

I THANK YOU.

But Where?

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

It is so little that I need,
So little that I ask;
Just my own place in God's vast space,
And time to do my task,
And time to think of things of worth
That might make beautiful the earth.

I am so small; earth is so large;
So young, and Time so old.
And yet I fight by day and night
With hunger, want and cold.
While, whip in hand, Fate stands intent
On urging forward ogre Rent!

The world is such a great round ball;
It must hold sun and soil
Enough to feed my little need
Without such drudging toil.
There must be green things, light and air,
And peace for me on earth, but where?

Discourses of a Scientist

By Edgar Lucien Larkin

Director of Mt. Lowe Observatory.

WHEN transit telescopes were invented and set in position on their solid piers of stone and placed in the precise meridian, and when accurate clocks were made, astronomers had two engines for work. They began making observations of the complex motions of all the planets, and ascertained their right ascensions, distance eastward always from the first point of the zodiacal sign of Aries, and declinations, celestial north and south of the celestial equator. Each observation was recorded in extensive catalogues during the first hundred years before the invention and manufacture of micrometers—measures of small quantities. First, they located the plane in which lies the orbit of the earth around the sun and called it the plane of the ecliptic. All distances north or south of this standard plane are named latitudes. By repeated observation they finally located this fundamental plane among the stars and then made charts. Next they located the plane of the celestial equator with ever increasing precision. The plane of the ecliptic passes through the center of the sun and earth. The plane of the celestial equator is imagined to be the equator of the earth expanded forever.

Then two catalogues had to be made. latitudes of all the planets and stars, together with their longitudes, which are also measured ever to the east, from the highly important point of the first of Arles. The other catalogue was of right ascensions and declinations. These books ever increased in size.

Runyon ON SUCCESS

By Damon Runyon

ONE night, not long ago, in a loud-talking, low-down, blue-jawed fellow with a big head of hair in front of him. Next to him was a mild-looking chap, even better dressed than the loud talker. Next to the mild-looking man was an unkempt fellow with a cap pulled well down over a pair of unsteady eyes.

I noticed as the dice passed from one player to another that when the loud talker got hold of them everybody seemed anxious to bet their money "with the dice," which is to say, they wagered that the loud talker would win. Yet he was not having a great deal of luck while I watched.

When the mild-looking chap took the dice a very few would bet on him to win and he was winning fairly good fortune. When the dice went to the unkempt fellow, many eyes the majority of those around the table refrained from betting at all, and those who did bet wagered against him.

He was making small bets, yet he seemed to be winning steadily. I thought if I were betting I would follow his play and I was warned to my neighbor, who was taking the opposite course, and losing.

"Well, take another good look at him," said my neighbor. "Just size him up. He's got anything about him to indicate that he has ever won permanently at any game, or is likely to be a permanent winner. Does his appearance, or manner, suggest success?"

I had to admit it did not. "But," I said, "that mild-looking chap there seems successful enough in appearance, and he is certainly winning regularly. You are not following him, either. You are backing that loud loser at the end of the table."

"Yes," said my neighbor, "that's true. I am laying off that mild-looking bird because I don't like the way he goes about handling the dice. He doesn't seem to have any confidence in himself, even though he's winning. He doesn't let go the dice with any cocksureness. He's successful, but it seems to be a constant surprise to him."

I left about midnight, but the next day I ran into my neighbor. "Well, how did it all turn out?" he asked. "He seemed a bit sheepish as he answered."

"I had to quit following that loud bird right after you left," he said. "He was losing too consistently. He finally got broke, but before that I had been trailing with the looking fellow, and the chap in the cap, and I was a good winner at one time."
